

Establishing the marina was the impetus for developing a large-scale resort around it catering to the ultra-wealthy.

Montenegro's government took advantage of Montenegro's independence from Yugoslavia to sell off the country's assets to private investors, including the deep-water port near Tivat. It was formerly used as a shipyard by the Yugoslav navy.

